THE LATE NORTH CAROLINA CONVENTION—STATE OF PARTIES IN THAT BODY—FAREWELL LETTER FROM X. Y. Z.

Correspondence of the Petersburg Daily Index.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 25, 1865.

MR. EDITOR: I am glad that your correspondent "Guy" proposes to make you acquainted with the personnel of the most prominent members of the North Carolina Convention so recently adjourned. If his reports of proceedings are to be the criterion of his ability, he must be well qualified for the task, and I will not continue to trespass on his province, but will take leave of your readers in a few general remarks on the state of parties as developed during the session.

One would suppose that there could be nothing but harmonious action in a body which was convened for the sole purpose of making such changes in the organic law of the State as circumstances rendered necessary, in order to smooth the way for her re-admission into the Union. But the fell spirit of party, which has done so much to bring desolation upon us, still broods as a curse over all our councils, and aided by the selfish purposes of ambitious men, raises its frightful visage in the midst of our deliberative assemblies. How wretchedly farcical do the by-gone struggles of the Whig and Democratic parties now appear to a Southern man! While our foes were banding together to destroy us, we were dividing in heart-burning strife over abstract propositions. Happy are they who can learn from experience; but the lessons of the past have been given to us in vain. Instead of beginning a new life, we take up the old where we were interrupted by the carnival of blood, and the fiends laugh until hell re-echoes the sound.

The foregoing reflections are suggested by my observation of men and measure during the Convention. It had not been long in session before the moves on the political chess board began to be made by the most skillful players—each set ready to go off into ecstasies when it might succeed in giving the other "check mate."

The first and most numerous party that assumed "a local habitation and a name" in the Convention, was led by a class of men who claimed to be extra loyal, and who could snuff secession on every breeze. Union men they were, par excellence; and always loved the Union; had wept over its disruption, and had thanked God, on their knees, for their return to the "old mansion." Some of the profane insist that it was the only act of devotion they had ever been guilty of, and doubt even if that was not imaginary. The distinguishing characteristic of this party was unrelenting proscription of every man who had ever breathed a wish for the success of the Confederate cause, who would refuse to denounce the struggles made in its behalf, or the men who had given their blood to sustain it. Your readers will not understand that this was actually required, in epistolais verbis, as the price of membership, but simply that a spirit should be manifested from which the deduction might be easily made.

It must be confessed that the bonds of union and brotherly love cementing this party, are almost as strong as those with which they seek to rebind together the States. I will specify some of them, to wit: Two United Senators, three Supreme Court Judges, eight Circuit Judges, one Attorney General, seven Solicitors, one Treasurer, one Comptroller, one Secretary of State, and innumerable other official positions. Be it known unto you, that the Provisional Government of North Carolina had long since issued its ukase vacating every office in the State even to that of Constable, and the Convention confirmed the work. All the paying vacancies have been patched out, and no man will be allowed to approach the public crib, much less to regale himself thereat, unless he shall have the "ear marks" by which the members of that very "strait sect" are known. Indeed, it claims the confidence of the public, upon the ground that one-half of the people of the State, including some of the ablest citizens, are, in these days of general amnesty, to be remorselessly proscribed. Well may the delegate from Forsyth say, in his published speech, "He had traveled recently in the North, had found the people there kind and conciliatory, and less vindictive towards our own citizens, than many gentlemen on that floor."

The party I have described may be designated as the "Radical Union party." The party in the Convention which opposed it, may be designated as the "Conservative Union party." The last named party was composed of men who whatever may have been their antecedents, joined hearts and hands in an honest effort to bring the old ship back again to her true course. They desired all to come up to the work, without stopping to inquire with they had served, or from what port they had sailed, being solicitous only, that they should now faithfully discharge their duty. The members of this party make no ultra pretensions to loyalty, although the most consistent Union men in the Convention were to be found among them. They seemed to take their point of departure from the acknowledged fact that the government, in perfecting the work of reconstruction, does not require our people to admit that for four years they were traitors at heart to the cause they had espoused, which had evoked all their energies, and to the defence of which they had given their richest treasures. That the men who could thus stand up, in the face of day, and traduce all that had once upon a time seemed dear to them, were unfit to be trusted in the hour of need, and likely to trim their sails always to catch the favoring breeze; and that the best proof of loyalty was an open avowal of facts, an honest pledge for the present and the future, accompanied by acts placing the sincerity thereof beyond doubt.—Persecution and proscription for no part of the creed of this party, and such men as Giles Mebane, Wm. Eaton and Wm. A. Wright, were numbered in its ranks—men who would do honor to any cause.

The "Radical party" way led by —, but charity requires me not to lift the veil. A few years hence, and they too well claim a seat at the Conservative board.

There was still another party in the Convention, entitled to the appellation of the "The Non-Committal Party." It reminded me of the "Strangler" in Bulwer's Strange Story—the supple, crawling, cringing, yet deadly treacherous slave of Hargrave. The first described party excited my detestation and defiance, but as it squared itself boldly to its work, and challenged all opponents to an encounter in the ring, I could not but entertain for it some degree of respect; the second party was entitled to and received my admiration; but the only feelings evoked by the third, were those of loathing and contempt.

No good bye, Mr. Editor. Happy mortal—thou wilt regale thy palate on the best "Lynnhaven," washed down by sparkling Mountain Dew, while thy humble servant must rest satisfied with "hog and hominy." X. Y. Z.

A CARD

To the Voters of Rowan County.

The undersigned offers himself as an independent candidate to represent you in the House of Commons at the ensuing Legislature. I deem it unnecessary to review my antecedents in connection with the late war, as they are too well known by you to require comments. If elected, I pledge myself to give to the administration of President Johnson the support it demands, and will use every exertion consistent with honor, to procure a speedy withdrawal of U. States troops from the State, and to facilitate reconstruction by the admission of North Carolina to a full participation in all the rights and powers of a State, under the Federal Constitution.

As regards the election of other officers, the statement of any preference I may feel for candidates for any other office, would seem like dictation on my part, and I shall refrain from doing so, as I think every man should vote according to the dictates of his judgment and conscience.

I am uncompromisingly opposed to negro suffrage, restricted or general, in any manner shape or form.

If elected, I shall vote for a Commissioner to recover property belonging to the State, improperly taken during the war, so as to lighten your taxes as much as possible. I shall also favor the election of Magistrates, Judges, and other officers, by the people—as I regard the people the best judges of those who would suit them. I shall also favor hard work, short speeches and short sessions of the Legislature to lessen our expenses. I am a plain man, sprung from the people—one of yourselves—my feelings and sympathies are with the people—I think I understand them, and if elected, believe I can reflect their wishes. ELECTIONS.

The Elections for Governor, Representatives to Congress, and Members of Assembly, Sheriff and Clerks, will take place on Thursday, the 9th day of November, 1865.

National Union Andrew Johnson Ticket!

FOR GOVERNOR,

WILLIAM W. HOLDEN,

OF WARE COUNTY.

FOR THE SENATE

FRANK E. SHOBER, Esq.

FOR THE COMMONS,

LUKE BLACKMER, Esq.

THE ENSUING ELECTION.

It is agreed on all hands that the ensuing election is the most momentous of any ever held since we joined the Federal Union in 1789. Upon its result, may hang our future destiny for years to come. What effect the election of Holden or Worth—Holden or Worth candidates for the Legislature or "straights" "weather-cocks" or quondam Secessionists to Congress, may produce on the Northern mind and especially as represented in Congress, it is difficult to predict. No one can certainly tell. The difficulty of the subject however, should at this time rather invite than repel investigation. In giving to the matter, that careful analysis it demands, we should lay aside all feeling, and treat it altogether as a philosophical problem to be solved by the lights of reason, experience, and observation as applied to human nature and the current events of the day. It is no time for abstractions, must less for glittering generalities. Let us be guided by reason and by that alone.

Then to pursue our inquiries, let us all answer to our consciences truly what is the true interests of our people in connection with the election. We throw out the following suggestions as the result of long and continuous reflection, earnestly striving the while to divest ourselves of all passion and prejudice. We ought not in casting our vote in this election to be guided by any personal preferences or predilections, we should not inquire whether a candidate has been a Whig or Democrat—or whether, being recognized by the supreme authority as orthodox, he has tergiversated hitherto or been strictly consistent. The sole inquiry with us should be "what would be the effect of his election, on our chances for reconstruction."

That and that alone should be our guide in selecting. This view of the subject, is correct, disposes of the argument which we have so often heard used, to wit: that it would be a disgrace to elect Gov. Holden. We are not either Gov. Holden's personal friend nor his apologist and we neither know nor care what may be his personal attributes. We are no man worshipers and we leave all bootlicking to those that like the operation. Of his former political course and political inconsistencies, we have our opinion, but it is as the ladies would say "neither here nor there." For the reasons above set forth we do not conceive that it has any bearing on the election. But the very argument based in this notion is felo de se—for whipped, subjugated and ruined, would not the picture lose its Hogarthian features and present too glaring a contrast, by having a preux chevalier as the prominent character? Gov. Holden has been chief actor in the grand tragedy, would it not be unusual to suppress his part in the fifth Act? We advance this to meet the objection we have met with from ultra Southern men (so-called.) And at the same time we would suggest to these selfsame electors that Mr. J. Worth does not exactly fit their beau ideal and we have no Wade Hampton for a candidate. In all matters of sympathy or repugnance with this class, we may say in homely adage, that Worth is about as "deep in the mud as Holden is in the mire." The time will come when all such men as Holden and Worth will go by the board. And as you have not nor can have in this election the choice of your heart, throw your heart out of the matter and take the choice of your head. Then to recur. Viewing this question in its bearing on reconstruction, we think that acceptability is a most potent ground of choice. Then who is as far as we can know, the most acceptable in Washington, Mr. Holden or Mr. Worth? What evidence, if any, have we to guide us in pursuing this inquiry? We answer the strongest we could have, as presumptive premonitions, namely, the official endorsement of the "President in his appointment of W. W. Holden Provisional Governor over the head of one of the most prominent gentlemen, lawyer and consistent, live-long, bitter, "rantankerous" Union man in the whole borders of the State—a man who had always hated secession and its advocates with the intensity of white heat—who sneered at, jeered at and denounced the Confederacy and every body concerned with it as only the Hon. Bat Moore could—over a man whose talent is of the very highest order, and whose private character is without a blemish. As to this being done against the Governor's consent, that's in our opinion all bosh (so called.) We must regard the President's action as a full and unequivocal endorsement of Gov. Holden's Unionism, or what is more to the purpose, it was equivalent to declaring in all its length and breadth that Governor Holden's Unionism was better suited to his taste than Mr. Moore's and consequently any one else's.

We are not capable of appreciating the correctness of the President's judgment but de gustibus non est disputandum. The true inquiry is not what was the best (so called) Union record in fact, but what is the most acceptable in Washington. Nor will it do to urge that the President did not have all the lights before him, for independently of the fact of the presence at the time in Washington, of an antagonistic delegation who were cocked and primed against the Governor—the truth is, the government officials at Washington really knew as much if not more about the political status of our leading men, than the people here generally—any supposition or opinion to the contrary is all bosh (so called.)

Then whatever Gov. Holden is or may have been, we have the strongest assurance from the President that he is the man for him. Have Gov. Holden's opponents advanced a fact or argument to weaken the force of this powerful and main point in the contest. Nothing—absolutely nothing. It is said that something must be "rotten in Denmark" or Hanes and others would not have deserted him. Without being apprised of the reasons which led these disciples into such a schism and taking that fact by itself the presumptive inference would rather be that they had exhibited only base ingratitude. Their conduct is a fact and that fact convicts them of political desertion to the enemy (so-called.) and without explanation proves nothing against the Governor.

It is also said that Gov. Holden has acted with duplicity in the matter of endorsing applications for pardon. That he tells some parties that he has favorably recommended their petitions and it turns out the reverse—that he has forward applications endorsed verbally with a strong recommendation but with some very minute characters indicating to his agent that he means directly the reverse. Whether these reports be true or not we know not. But we do know that they have not been proved. It is also said that he refused permission to a citizen to visit the public library without assigning any cause which, if true, is utterly at variance with these principles of civil liberty the Gov. has always advocated.

There are other charges as long as the moral law but we shall not notice them for the reason that we shall state an answer to any or all combined. They are mere charges and as we have no reason to suppose that the confidence of the President is in the slightest degree impaired—he is, notwithstanding, more acceptable to those from whom we must expect reconstruction than any other man so far as we have good reason to believe. What ever else may be said of Gov. Holden, none can doubt his will and determination, and however much any one may doubt his capacity for good no one can doubt his power for accomplishing his designs. He claimed years ago the power "to kill and make alive," events subsequent to that declaration prove its correctness. What if Gov. Holden should regard the election of Mr. Worth as indicating an unfitness on the part of the people to participate in all the rights and privileges of the Union? Suppose acting in that belief he should use his influence with the President to keep the State in its present condition, garrisoned with troops? Ponder the matter well before by, your action on Thursday, you shall have perpetuated for an indefinite time, military rule over us.

Then let us turn our attention to Mr. Worth. He may be, and doubtless is a respectable man. His Union record may be as good as any man's. He may be in every way worthy of the office—of all these matters we know but little and care less as admitting them all to be true, the stern inquiry meets us, what effect would his election have upon reconstruction? His advocates say Gen. Humphreys was elected over Judge Fish in Mississippi & when Gen. Wade Hampton was supposed to be elected over in South Carolina the President pardoned him. The President is, in so doing, but fulfilling in spirit the terms of his Proclamations, but his action can not fairly be treated as either a direct or indirect, approval of the result; besides in neither case were the pardoned candidates, running against his APPOINTEE. Even as it is, we learn from the newspapers that the election, (so called) of Wade Hampton produced intense dissatisfaction at the North. It has been said pithily, that secession died of inaction & that republicanism is dying of repletion—the radical element of that party feel that the admission of the Southern States will prove the death-warrant of their faction. They will leave no stone unturned to prevent the consummation of so un auspicious an event (so-called.) They will seize with avidity upon everything which bears the appearance of disaffection, as a pretext for excluding the States lately at war with the Government. The election of Mr. Worth viewed in this light would furnish a pretext so far as this State is concerned. Again the body of the Northern Congressmen, cannot possibly view the complicated elements of the canvass, as a large portion of our people do. They know that Gov. Holden was appointed Provisional Governor, and they can never be got to understand the rationale of the opposition. They will see in it an uncalculated and factious opposition to the declared preferences of the President.

It would take Mr. Moore several weeks to teach and explain the hypothesis by regular lessons and they have not the time if they had the inclination to learn the grounds. They can understand and will duly appreciate the election of Gov. Holden. They would see in it, or think they did, the recorded loyalty of North Carolina.

It is evident that the action of the late Convention has placed our State on a worse footing than she was before. She was regarded as loyal before, but, the omission of the President to send the congratulatory telegram, he forwarded to Gov. S. Sharkey and Parsons, is ominous. Then it behooves us to repair, not widen the breach. We can do this in all probability by the election of Holden and the "straight" Union candidates for Congress. We do not know of a secessionist (so-called) in the field and we earnestly trust that they will not mix themselves up in the matter. Give these ultras the reins and see how they will drive. Give sense of them plenty of rope and they will hang themselves. Bide your time—the people are true and good and honest—give them time and they will drift onto the right current at the proper time. As to the candidates for Congress we have termed "weather-cocks," we earnestly appeal to you for similar considerations to these advanced not to touch them when you can get those as to whose eligibility there can be no question. Read the following from the Washington correspondent of the New York News.

The Southern Members to be Excluded if Possible.

"Such being the situation, as well known to the leading Radical politicians, they have determined to make the grand fight at the opening of the session, and boldly refuse admittance to all the 'Southern delegations, unless it should happen that 'Radical men present themselves claiming seats. 'This is their determination, and they will support it with the strength of desperation. They will scruple at the use of no means whatever to effect the end they have in view. They are desperate men, and the ground on which they stand is slipping from beneath their feet. If they are defeated in this matter, they acknowledge that 'their organization must be broken up, and that their power will be gone forever.'"

If you cannot get a candidate to vote for, who can take the oath, it were better that the election should go by default, for that would show as far as you could, your earnest acquiescence, in the laws of the land.

In our issue of yesterday we called and piled up the proof that the test oath would be required and so send a man there who cannot take it, looks like voting your own destruction. As to the Legislature—we hope good men, talented men and intelligent fair minded men, will be sent. If we should turn out to be mistaken in the views, arguments and predictions we have advanced, we shall be gratified. They are the result of patient thought and are the honest convictions of our judgment, which we submit to the public for what they are worth.

RETURNED.

Our associate Dr. W. H. Cole, returned yesterday from his successful trip northward. His arrival was greeted warmly by his friends and the citizens of Salisbury, generally; especially as he bears upon his arm a bride, to whom we wish every happiness and joy, in her new home.

We welcome you indeed to our exchange list.

AN ORDINANCE

Declaring vacant all the offices of the State in existence on the twenty-sixth day of April, eighteen hundred and sixty-five.

Whereas, no person elected or appointed to any office under the State can rightfully claim any vested interest therein until he shall have taken the oath to support the Constitution of the United States, as prescribed in that instrument, and also an oath of office: And whereas, those officers who did take such oath and thereafter took an oath to support the Constitution of the Confederate States, did thereby incur the penalty of forfeiting their offices, and are incapable of resuming the duties thereof, to which they were respectively elected or appointed, without again taking the like oaths:

And whereas, it is in the power of the convention to allow or deny to such persons the privilege of again qualifying themselves anew by taking such oaths; and this convention deems it expedient, after so great a popular convulsion as has happened amongst the people of this State, that all such offices should be filled anew by persons hereafter chosen or appointed:

Be it therefore ordained by the delegates of the people of this convention assembled, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That no officer of this State who may have taken an oath to support the Constitution of the Confederate States shall be capable of holding under the State any office or place of trust or profit which he held when he took such oath to support the Constitution of the Confederate States, until he may be re-appointed or re-elected to the same; and all the offices lately held by such persons are hereby declared vacant.

[Ratified in convention this nineteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

"Shebangs," are scattered over town like mullen stalks in an old field. We hope nobody will get hurt.

Wanted—"Locals."

Any friend who has heard any thing fish or racy, occurring from a fight or a foot race to a nigger-ball will please call around to our sanctum and convey the intelligence. We promise not to charge him anything and will lend him Ben Wood's paper to read (in the office.)—Trot up your items for we are "dreadful dry."

OYSTERS.

No man ever appreciates the sweetness of life until he has been deprived from the gallows or eaten a plate of oysters. Don't forget where you can find them, next door to R. R. Bridge at friend Benini's who knows how to put them up, right.

TRUTH AND POETRY.

I knew by the smoke that so gracefully curled
Around the green elm that a cottage was near
And I said to myself if there's peace to be found
The heart that is humble might hope for it here

So much for the poetry—the truth is Dr. Whitehead, offers for sale as will be seen on reference to our advertising columns one of the nicest, sweetest, snugest places in this or any other city. It is indeed rus in urbe (so-called.)

Dr. J. G. RAMSAY one of the candidates for Congress in this District, will address his fellow citizens at the Court house, in Salisbury, tomorrow at 11 o'clock, a. m.

AFRAID TO LAUGH.

Ladies sometimes repress their laughter to avoid revealing the discoloration and imperfection of their teeth. Fair ones, we would advise you to try the Fragrant Soredont. It will remove, at once, all impurities, arrest the progress of decay, and whiten such parts as have already become black by decay, and leave the breath as fragrant as a rose.
